

Apr 23, 2009 9:04 pm US/Eastern

Center City Hosts Open House Tours

Reporting

Nicole Brewer

PHILADELPHIA (CBS 3) —

If you're looking for your spot on the sky line or just want to see your dream digs up close, this Saturday and Sunday from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. (April 25th & 26th), Philadelphia Magazine and Center City District have you covered.

Known as Open House Tours, the bi-annual event includes sixteen properties throughout Philadelphia, ranging in cost from one-thousand dollars per month to $15 Million.

Participating properties will open their doors to the public for new and recently constructed apartments, town homes and condos for sale or rent.

All locations will be educating visitors on special amenities and features and some will host food receptions and entertainment.

An Open House Pass will be offered by select properties that will feature local restaurant and store discounts. The pass will also give tour-goers a twenty percent discount on certain parking garages.

For a full list of participating properties and a detailed map, click here.

(© MMIX, CBS Broadcasting Inc. All Rights Reserved.)